Another busy year, a bustling family, all the children trying their best at all they do. I find that all kids love to draw and paint and the difference between carrying on with art as a passion and giving it up depends on the encouragement and opportunities given at home. After teaching for many years I now enjoy honing my painting and drawing skills. I am willing to try most styles of painting and enjoy trying new materials. Floral, still life and whimsical paintings are predominant in my portfolio however, if you view my work you will see that nothing is really off limits. Painting along with family is my passion in life and I hope you enjoy viewing some of my work.
