Sigrid Ehrenberg

I was born in 1964. Since age 5, I travelled in Europe with my mother, who was a professional painter. We stayed for many years at the coast of the beautiful Adriatic sea.

I went to school in former Yugoslavia, France and Austria. In 1984, I returned to Sweden, where all my family was, and where I could have a future. I started to work and attended Stockholm University as a student of biology. I have always loved the sea, and, hence, I specialized in marine ecology.

For family reasons I moved from Stockholm to Avesta, a small town where I live now. As there is not much work for a marine ecologist in the area, I have worked with other things, and now, finally, I have found something that makes life wonderful: painting.

On December 31st 2017, I wondered what will become of me. I had been going through my late mother's painting material and found several tubes of acrylics that were still good. I decided to give painting a chance. In the new year of 2018, I started, and cannot stop.
